Oxford

A new series of books in the special field of Early Music:

Under the general editorship of Howard M. Brown, of the University of Chicago, this new series was launched a few months ago with the first three titles:

EARLY MUSIC BOOKS

No. 1 Embellishing 16th-Century Music, by Howard M. Brown

How to apply 16th-century rules of ornamentation, how to execute them, and how to maintain spontaneity of performance form the basis of Dr. Brown's masterful treatise on the subject. There are many music examples, citations of primary source material, and a good deal of sense. 80 pp linline $9.95

No. 2 Early Percussion Instruments from the Middle Ages to the Baroque, by James Blades and Jeremy Montagu

No European percussion instruments and no percussion music earlier than the 16th century have survived. With a combination of scholarly research into European pictorial evidence and non-European musics, and of practical musicianship by having instruments and techniques tested in performance by two of the foremost English early-music groups, the authors have attempted to fill the musical space. The first part of the book, by Blades, covers the history of the instruments. The second part, by Montagu, describes the instruments and their technique. 80 pp linline $9.95

No. 3 Making Early Percussion Instruments, by Jeremy Montagu

From the abundant pictorial evidence one can grasp the importance and centrality of percussion instruments to the music of medieval, renaissance, and baroque times. There are, however, no surviving European instruments. The author is experienced both as a performer and a musicologist, and he shares the step-by-step procedures for making these instruments today which he developed from his own informed necessity. Fully diagrammed. All the instruments described in Early Music Book no. 2 can be made by following this manual. The book is divided into The Shells, The Heads, The Fittings, The Beaters, and Miscellaneous, with a word on Care and Maintenance. 56 pp linline $9.95

The catalogues of Oxford University Press have many more titles of interest to AMIS Journal subscribers. Please write and request listings in your field of interest—books on music, music for any and all instruments, from percussion to symphony orchestra, and listings of complete composers' publications, both American and English.

Early Instruments from Dolmetsch

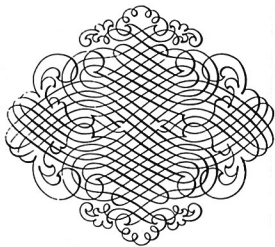

The Dolmetsch concert harpsichord:

Suitable for playing the entire repertoire of harpsichord music providing all the technical resources necessary for the virtuoso and serious student.

The Dolmetsch hand-made recorder:

It was Dolmetsch who re-introduced the recorder to the musical world early this century, and it is Dolmetsch who still make the finest recorders available. Each one is made of exotic woods and ivory, and individually voiced and tuned. In their own class too, are the Dolmetsch plastic recorders — superb instruments in their own right at an economic price.

Plus many other instruments: including spinets, viols, lutes, rebecs, harps, etc. Ask for your free illustrated catalogue.

We have been selling musical instruments for over 125 years and are the largest retail outlet in the world specializing in early musical instruments.

Our mail order service is world-wide and known throughout the early music world for prompt and efficient service. Ninety percent of our business is with overseas customers.

We will be glad to advise you on any matter relating to early musical instruments. If we cannot answer your enquiry ourselves we can probably put you in touch with some-one in the early music field who can.

We can supply you with anything from a 'Wood' Brussels crumhorn (illustrated) to a lute kit by Ian Harwood & John Isaacs or a Zuckermann harpsichord. We have thousands of instruments and in addition a well stocked, specialist early sheet music department.

*To the truly discriminating keyboard player we offer the finest copies of antique harpsichords and fortepianos. We feel that no degree of compromise is appropriate in making instruments identical in musical style, technical design and construction,
to the instruments of Ruckers, Dulcken, Stein and Könnicke.*

*Each instrument is made of imported European woods.
All leather, music wire and textiles are reproduced from eighteenth century recipes. We hand-forged all hinges and hardware. The harpsichords are finished with hand-mixed paints and decorated with goldleaf.
The fortepianos are finished with a hand rubbed spirit varnish and polished with beeswax.*

The American Musical Instrument Society

The American Musical Instrument Society (AMIS) is an international organization founded in 1971 to promote study of the history, design, and use of musical instruments in all cultures and from all periods.

ACTIVITIES: AMIS holds an annual meeting with symposia, papers, and performances of interest to the membership. Meetings have been held at the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D.C.; The Boston Museum of Fine Arts; The University of Michigan at Ann Arbor; and New York University.

PUBLICATIONS AND PROJECTS: AMIS publishes the scholarly Journal comprising an annual number and three annual Newsletters providing the membership with information on worldwide activities, book lists and comments, and general short articles of interest to museum curators, collectors, performers, and others interested in musical instruments. A current project of the Society is the compilation of a Directory of Contemporary American Musical Instrument Makers.

MEMBERSHIP: Membership in AMIS is open to both individuals and institutions upon payment of the annual dues of $12.50. Members receive the Journal and the Newsletter, as well as all mailings relative to activities of the Society. Checks, or bank drafts, payable in U.S. dollars, should be made out to the American Musical Instrument Society, Inc., and, together with a membership application, sent to the Treasurer: Ms. Linda Tauber, P.O. Box 4147, Shreveport, Louisiana 71104.
